Title: Native Seeds Needs and Capacities: conclusions and recommendations from the final report of the national academies' assessment

Presentation Abstract: A presentation from the National Academies' committee on its final report, due out in late August, will describe the outcomes from its information-gathering activities of the past year and half, including a survey of native seed suppliers, a survey of state agencies that use native seeds, and insights from semi-structured interviews of federal agency personnel involved in native seed use. Based on its fact-finding the report includes recommendations for making the native seed supply more robust and predictable.
