

Natural Areas Journal* - January 2021 Issue

The January 2021 issue of the Natural Areas Journal is now available. The Natural Areas Journal is a peer reviewed, scientific journal focused on natural areas management, preservation, and restoration featuring papers from around the globe.

January's publication includes one open-access article: *A Sampling-Based Approach to Estimating the Minimum Population Size of the Federally Threatened Colorado Hookless Cactus \(Sclerocactus glaucus\)* by Phil P. Krening, Carol A. Dawson, Kenneth W. Holsinger, and John W. Willoughby.

Members can find the complete January 2021 issue here. Content includes:

- Effects of Recent Wildfires in Piñon-Juniper Woodlands of Mesa Verde National Park, Colorado, USA
- Succession from Pasture to Forest in a Mesic Southern Forest in Michigan, USA
- Spotted Knapweed Spread and Plant Community Changes in a Lacustrine Dune System
- *Ensemble Species Distribution Model Identifies Survey Opportunities for At-Risk Bearded Beaksedge (Rhynchospora crinipes) in the Southeastern United States*
- The Sandsage Prairie Ecological System: Biodiversity Hotspot for the Great Plains

Learn more about the *Natural Areas Journal